Help your child see: Promoting the vision develop- ment of young children with ocular visual impairment (DVD) / Jan, James; The Visual Impairment Program / 2001

An award winning 22-minute video full of information and hope for you and your child who is visually impaired. Based on the latest techniques in the field of visual development in young children, the video explains how children acquire visual skills, and how you can help them along the way. You'll learn several basic methods that have been used successfully by parents and caregivers to encourage their child's vision. These are techniques that you can use in your home – there's no professional training or special equipment needed. The happy, smiling faces of the children featured on the video will show you that while every child's condition is different, all can benefit with your help.
